

To Whom It May Concern:

My wife and I relocated from New Mexico to Texas and were introduced to Evan Wilke by our realtor to help us with the financing on our home purchase. It was very important that we get settled in quickly to Houston, so I could start my new job, which was a promotion. Evan Wilke handled our financing with complete professionalism. He was quick, direct, and gave us very good rates. I would recommend him to anyone I know.

In addition, he gave us some literature on personal financing that he suggested my wife and I read. He had told me he read it himself many times and offered this as a gift to his clients to help them get ahead financially. Although this had nothing to do with our mortgage, it showed he cares about his clients. Since then we have implemented the advice he gave us and as a result, my wife and I are much better at communicating about our personal finances. We have gone from being $40,000.00 in debt, to having it all paid off. I am about to have my car note paid off and will soon only have a mortgage note as debt. As a result we have a much more money to save and use at our dispose. I am not sure we would be in this predicament had we not met Evan. To anyone thinking about using someone other than Evan, I would look hard at the person who is helping you with the largest purchase in your life and see if they are offering the same dynamic and professional advice before going with them. I would recommend you call him and see what he can do for you.
